Local authority transparency index

The indicators shown below were proposed and assessed by Transparència Internacional Espanya. ITA, the Index of Transparency of Local Authorities, offers a tool for measuring the level of transparency with regard to citizens and society offered by Local Authorities in Spain.

In 2012, Transparència Internacional Espanya, carried out the fourth edition of ITA, assessing the transparency of the 110 biggest Local Authorities in Spain, by using a collection of 80 indicators. You can consult the results for 2012.

Barcelona City Council aims to show the highest level of transparency, by providing all citizens with direct consultations and access to information. The six areas of transparency which are assessed in ITA, and which Barcelona City Council is constantly updating, are as follows:

Participation processes

We wish to engage the citizens of Barcelona in the tasks of government. Governments can no longer do everything, and can even less on their own. We need public awareness and engagement. We must be able to channel all the ideas, knowledge and increasingly expressed keenness to take part by our citizens.

To make possible, along with other initiatives, we have been organising participation processes through which allow city residents can contribute their knowledge and experience in forums for dialogue with municipal and social representatives. Participation processes have different aims, depending on whom or what they affect: a specific part of the population (children, new arrivals, the elderly, etc.) an area or specific community (district, neighbourhood, community plans, plans for the future, etc.) a sector or specific sphere (urban planning, sport, education, etc.). They can also have a general scope, such as the municipal action plans.

Any participation process requires contemplation of the information and communication stages, the matter under discussion and the options put forward, the stages for gathering proposals and contributions and giving an answer, explaining the decision finally adopted.

Rambla del Poble Nou remodelling process

A participatory process ultimately aimed at preparing the foundations for the lines of future action in the Rambla del Poble Nou. Current terraces and issues relating to the Rambla's public spaces are the main stumbling blocks to an agreement with local residents over the municipal redevelopment work.

This morning saw Eduard Freixedes, the District Councillor of Sant Martí, and Carles Agustí, the Commissioner for Participation, explain the new stage in the Rambla del Poble Nou's participation process.

The participatory consultation on the Rambla del Poble Nou marks a new stage based on the monitoring committees for the Rambla's redevelopment that were set up in June 2012. Staying true to its electoral pledge to solve the Rambla del Poble Nou's current problems, the municipal government presented the Rambla's improvement project at the Neighbourhood Council's meeting of June 2012. The establishment of a monitoring committee for the Rambla's development, involving the neighbourhood's resident associations, restaurant owners, retailers, associations, crafts people and local residents, was agreed to during that meeting. Ever since that first committee, decisions have been taken over where the kiosks should be located, where the monument to Dr Trueta should be moved to and where the crafts market should be based.

The Sant Martí district is continuing with the participatory process and entering a new stage. Today sees the start of the "Let's Talk about the Rambla del Poble Nou" process, where distinct issues will be debated and voted on, corresponding to three priorities: terrace tables, future work on the Rambla de Taulat's section that stretches up to the sea and the type of surfacing to be used. Besides these priorities, other issues that local residents may wish to raise will also be open for discussion. Ten sessions will be held with various collectives and, once the participatory process has finished, the results of these meetings and the voting on the Rambla's redevelopment will be announced.

C/ Balmes along the Plaça Folguera to Plaça Molina stretch

Aquest projecte té unes característiques singulars i requeriran un abordatge diferent a la resta de trams del carrer Balmes, que ja han estat remodelats. Per aquest motiu, ja s'està definint el procés participatiu amb veïns i veïnes de l'entorn del carrer Balmes en el tram entre plaça Molina i plaça Joaquim Folguera.

El tram superior de la reforma del carrer Balmes (entre plaça Molina i plaça Folguera) serà el darrer tram de la remodelació d'aquest gran eix viari de Barcelona i seguint els acords del consell de barri celebrat el mes d'octubre de 2013, es realitzarà tenint en compte les propostes sorgides d'un procés participatiu amb veïns i comerciants d'aquest tram i entorn immediat.

S'està definint el procés participatiu ciutadà amb els veïns de la zona i del districte de Sarrià-Sant Gervasi que hi vulguin participar. Es preveu que a mitjans de l'any 2014 s'iniciarà la redacció del projecte de remodelació entre la Plaça Molina i Plaça Joaquim Folguera, amb unes característiques diferents als dos trams que ja han estat objecte de remodelació del mateix carrer Balmes, i que estarà finalitzat abans del termini de l'actual mandat municipal.

Atès les característiques diferents a la resta de trams ja executats o en procés

Montjuïc Mountain Uses Plan

Barcelona has been gradually reclaiming its coastline and is planning to turn Montjuïc mountain into one of the three big parks located on the city's uppermost reaches. This reclamation work requires not just Montjuïc's establishment as a park entity equipped for coordinating an important range of recreational, natural, cultural-activity, game and sports areas but also, as a system of general interest, a series of conservation and improvement initiatives, accessibility and security that ensure their correct use by every citizen.

Remodelling Plaça de les Glòries

Residents' associations in the neighbourhoods round Plaça de les Glòries have constantly called for the redevelopment of the square and surrounding area. In response to that call, Barcelona City Council launched a participation process in 2003 to reach a consensus on a common project for this city icon. The "Commitment to Glòries" signed by residents' associations and the City Council in 2007 represented a joint undertaking with various goals and projects to be realised. The Amendment to the General Metropolitan Plan is the blueprint to what will be the future transformation of the Plaça de les Glòries and its surroundings. Three citizen workshops were held at the end of September and start of October to inform the municipal officers and politicians in charge of the redevelopment project about the opinions and needs of local residents, the rest of the city's population and the city's associations and organisations, on which basis the terms and conditions for the Invitation to Tender and the "Commitment to Glòries" document approved back in 2007 are established. The aim of the workshops is to inform the 10 tendering teams of architects of the opinions and needs of the surrounding areas' local residents, the rest of the city's population and the city's associations and organisations, based on the terms and conditions established in the Invitation to Tender and the "Commitment to Glòries" document approved back in 2007.

Pla Cor, the participatory process for the Rambla

A plenary on the Rambla on 14 June 2012 saw the presentation of the conclusions of the participatory work conducted along the following six lines: morphological, social, economic, mobility, knowledge and governance. These line-focused workshops, along with subsequent technical and policy reflection - besides each line's specific analysis - led to three conclusions that foreshadow the approach to be followed:

- Despite the differences between the six lines, many of their goals are cross-sectional.
- The smoothing running of the strategy proposed has to be ensured and networking must be the main method for the development.
- The Rambla cannot be considered without its adjacent neighbourhoods.

The Rambla has its own association with several unique dynamics. The participating associations point out that the Rambla's spirit needs to be preserved and warn that any attempt to create a brand-new Rambla will be a mistake and that what needs to be made is an organised, secure, pleasant and inclusive Rambla. Work carried out at the participative workshops, technical and policy has given rise to a series of strategic lines that set out the roadmap for the PLA COR:

- The Rambla Inspection Plan which will be responsible for monitoring and inspecting the District and ensuring coexistence on the Rambla.
- A regulatory framework for the Rambla, by regulating specifically on level of urban-planning and activities taking place on the Rambla.
- Mobility must be worked on as a comprehensive concept: public transport, private transport, pedestrians and connections on the Rambla.

Bus Network participatory meetings. Mobility and Districts Agreement

The introduction of the first stage of the new Bus Network was followed by the launching of an information and participation process to assess and implement the rest of the network's stages.

The first five new network bus lines went into service in October 2012.

They are made up by two horizontal lines, two vertical lines and a diagonal line, extending the network by 88.8 km. Some 70,000 people are expected to be transported every day, representing almost 10% of the network's current number of passengers.

- H12 (Gornal - Besòs/Verneda), which replaces the 56 line.
- H6 (Zona Universitària - Fabra i Puig), which replaces the 74 line.
- V7 (Plaça Espanya - Sarrià), which replaces the 30 line.
- V21 (Passeig Marítim - Montbau), which replaces the 10 line.
- D20 (Passeig Marítim - Ernest Lluch), which replaces the route shared between the 57 and 157 lines

The other stages will be gradually implemented until all 28 high-performance lines are in operation

- 17 will be vertical (sea - mountain).
- 8 will be horizontal (Llobregat - Besòs).
- 3 more are radial and cross the above lines diagonally.
